SECTION A — THE LEAKS

Where AI and tools are wasting your money

Check each one that's true. These are the dollars going out the door for nothing.

- | | |
|---|--|
| ☐ You pay for two or more tools that do basically the same job. | ☐ You can't name a single dollar figure any AI tool has saved or made you. |
| ☐ Nobody on your team can tell you what your chatbot or automation actually did last month. | ☐ The person who set up your automations no longer works here (or never did). |
| ☐ You bought ChatGPT, Copilot, or Gemini seats and fewer than half your team logs in weekly. | ☐ You're on a higher-tier AI plan than your actual usage needs. |
| ☐ An automation broke and you found out from a customer, not a dashboard. | ☐ Two departments bought overlapping tools without knowing the other did. |
| ☐ You're paying for an AI feature bundled into software you already decided to cut. | ☐ You have an AI tool sitting unused because no one was trained to run it. |
| ☐ A tool auto-renewed this year and no one reviewed whether you still use it. | ☐ Your AI spend has grown but you've never done a line-by-line audit of it. |

SECTION B — THE WINS

Where AI could be making or saving you money

Check each one that's true. These are the profit centers AI quietly improves for businesses your size.

- ☐ Leads that come in after hours wait until morning for a first response.
- ☐ Quotes go out and nobody follows up unless the customer chases you.
- ☐ Dormant past customers never get a win-back touch.
- ☐ Repetitive back-office work (data entry, copy-paste, formatting) still eats staff hours.
- ☐ You don't have a weekly metrics view because no one has time to build it.
- ☐ Customer questions that repeat all day aren't answered by any system.
- ☐ Sales call notes never become structured next steps automatically.
- ☐ Onboarding a new customer is manual and different every time.
- ☐ Your team rewrites the same emails and docs from scratch constantly.
- ☐ Vendor contracts and invoices get reviewed slowly, or not at all.
- ☐ Reporting that owners want monthly takes someone a full day to assemble.
- ☐ Nobody owns 'find where AI could help' as an actual job on your team.

Tally your checks

0–2 boxes: You're tighter than most. There's still upside, but you're not bleeding.

3–5 boxes: You're likely losing roughly $300–$1,500/month to waste and missed wins. Fixable fast.

6+ boxes: You're probably leaving $1,500–$5,000+/month on the table. Worth a real look. Start with the single most expensive box.

Honest ranges, not fake precision. The exact number depends on your revenue and team size. That's what the assessment finds.
